

Gloria, a 56-year-old lady, is a housewife living in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Although Gloria had a house full of children three years ago, they have now all moved on to start their own lives. In light of this, Gloria now has an empty house that is only occupied by a traveling husband whose job is based in New York and herself.

Gloria repainted one of the occupied bedrooms. Once finished she didn't know how to decorate the room, so she just put up new drapes and bed linens. Afterwards, she took a piece she had acquired at an art show in downtown Greenwich and secured it on the drapes. Due to the fact that she just adored the brooch pin, more of this artwork was needed. The issue was she had no information about this artist except for a returned copy of the check with the artist's telephone number. Gloria's hope was to find out if the artist was participating in any upcoming shows in the region.
